

Indirect Questions

We can make questions sound more polite or formal. We do this by using phrases like:

Could you tell me...? Do you know...? So

Where does she come from? → Do you know where she comes from?

We don't change the tense in indirect questions.

We don't use the auxiliary do

Indirect questions don't have to follow question word order.

The future perfect simple tense is used to describe things which will be completed by a specific time in the future. It's formed by:

Will + have + past participle- e.g. I will have finished this chapter by six o'clock.

This tense is often used along with expressions of time, e.g. by the time, in five years' time, by six o'clock, by 2056.

The future continuous tense is used to describe something which will be in progress at a specified time in the future. It's formed by:

Will + be + -ing- e.g. In the Kingdom of God, people will not be marrying and giving in marriage. [Mark 12:25].
